

Alexander Lindsay

November 10, 1942 - June 18, 2024

Alexander Lindsay, 81, of Valatie, passed away Tuesday June 18, 2024. He is survived by his beloved daughter Alexandra Joy Lindsay. A complete obituary is forthcoming.

Tribute Wall

“ A sympathy card was purchased for the family of Alexander Lindsay.

October 20, 2025 at 10:06 AM

“ Hi Alex...Alex spoke his truth...unfiltered. I haven't met many people that do to his degree. Kudos for you speaking your truth. Also for being such a creative soul. When you prepared to move from the carriage house, I ended up with some cool metal rulers, which I now use in making my art. Also some well used prayer beads which I hold dear. Thanks for being the creative soul that you are. I so enjoy staying in contact with Joy and your daughter Alexandra. Sending you a high five in heaven. All the best. Alan

Alan Fernandez - October 22, 2024 at 12:59 PM

Alan.... You're the best. Wonderful post!

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:39 AM

PW

“ Dearest Alex-
You were the best!!!!!! I will always cherish my memory of you and love you. ❤️👍❤️👍🌸. Grander than grand. And always so proud of you. Beautiful inside and out. The most gorgeous man I have ever seen. We will all miss you.

pernille wager - August 31, 2024 at 01:02 AM

NS

I miss you so much dear Alex! I was one of your very first customers! I spoke to you right before your passing and didn't even know it was the end!! ❤️😭!!

Nancy Schneider - May 03, 2025 at 11:59 PM

“ What a handsome man you were. I was sorry to read of your passing. My brother and I have tried to get in touch over the years, but it was not to be, and now of course it's too late. I loved your mother, my aunt Marce very much. She was a wonderful person. Your daughter is in my thoughts and prayers.

Susan Roberts - August 30, 2024 at 01:21 PM

AL

Can we connect ?? I had no idea my dad's mom was your Aunt??

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:36 AM

AL

Please give me the best phone # to reach you. Would LOVE to connect ❤️

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:36 AM

PT

“ Alex was a well known member of the Hudson Power Boat Association. He could often be found on the deck overlooking the river and mountains. He could strike up a conversation with anyone and always asked about your well being and your life events. He was a friend to all. Alex will be missed by all our members. Pete Tenerowicz, Commodore, HPBA, Hudson, NY

---

Peter J Tenerowicz - August 29, 2024 at 04:31 PM

CF

“ Its hard to believe Alex Lindsay is no longer walking this earth. What a complex human!
Having worked with him for over 15 years we had so many memorable experiences- like wandering around Florence Rome together while working on the Gucci Project; like obtaining a patent together for a bag invention; like going to counseling together (yes we really did that- twice!) to improve our working relationship; like countless client and vendor lunches hammering-out: contracts, deliveries, and pricing while hammering down: Ouzos, vodkas and whiskeys. Needless to say life was quite exciting with Alex- Always a new experiment to expand sales; always a new training session like the Jester's quest where his sales teams were unleashed around Columbia County on an absurd treasure hunt – I've never laughed so hard!!! Countless, memories, some fond and some furious but ALWAYS memorable. Alex you were a great mentor to me and I thank you for the freedoms and access you gave me. A great portion of my life was formed on 39th street and I sort of grew-up there- both professionally and personally and for that I will be forever grateful. Where ever you might be now, I hope you are enjoying it! XO Carole Faber-Gannett

---

Carole Faber-Gannett - August 27, 2024 at 08:17 AM

AL

I love this so much. Missing you and angel Petey (who I remember so vividly) !! ❤️❤️

---

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:37 AM

VK

Lovely words, Carole. . .

---

Victoria Kriete - September 23, 2025 at 02:28 PM

VK

“ 8/15/2024 - Just got off the 'phone with Carole Faber who told me about Alex's passing. God rest his soul.

Worked for Alex Lindsay in the 1990's, a fascinating job and company, with more variety and interesting people than imaginable. Modern Arts Packaging, Lindsay Gray's Bistro, Mrs. Lindsay's (Joy's) Expo Travel Agency, Real Estate, Contracting - Never a dull moment. Alex had a larger-than-life personality, and he brought style and artistic flare to packaging. Alex contributed broadly to change in a dull industry - counting Paloma Picasso as a client among many other famous luxury brands, the Metropolitan Museum was a client. Alex was at times tough, but usually fair, he challenged and pushed one to be better. New York City bureaucracy wouldn't allow a banner for the restaurant - Alex wouldn't take no for an answer. Alex wanted trees planted in front of the building, to this day two gingko trees bring a smile when passing by 38 West 39th Street. Alex generously contributed gift bags to a charity event my family hosted annually at The Waldorf. Alex was surprising at times with myriad abilities, even taking over for the chef in the restaurant during the lunch rush in a pinch. Lindsay Gray's was the only decent after work place for a drink in the Garment District at that time. Alex had energy like no one and an eye for detail that missed nothing. You had to be canny around him, but he appreciated loyalty. He had a sense of humor and wore a hunting hat around the office at Christmas time on the day of my Secret Santa gift. I can honestly say I will never forget him. Our connection at interview was through Bard College, which coincidentally we had both attended, though years apart, and just as coincidentally my close school friends in New York were sisters to his Bard roommate. I'd see him at the Annual Bard Christmas parties and introduce him as my boss, Alex would scold - "Don't say that!" Years later am still in touch with co-workers from that time, a testimony to the close type of atmosphere Alex fostered. John, Carole, Mindy, Debbie, Margie, "Q" - Quirino, Chaman Lal (a/k/a Paul), Leona, Florence(s) and Sabastian (the alley cat) - all remembered with a smile. That time - that's due to him, and thank you, Alex. Victoria Kriete.

Victoria Kriete - August 15 at 07:33 PM

---

Victoria Kriete - August 17, 2024 at 04:44 PM

AL

Victoria,

This was SO beautiful for you to write. Did we ever meet? I don't remember you; and know if we had met I would have !! (I was a child when you were at 38thSt. Maybe you remember me?) lots of love!!!! ❤️
❤️❤�

---

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:39 AM

VK

Remember the day you were born, Alexandra - Your birth was much anticipated by your father. Your mother, Joy, wanted a basket to bring you home and Paul ran to get one. Also remember your mother bringing you to the office in a stroller - she was so elegant - wearing a beautiful full length fur coat. Also, as a toddler - you visited your father in his office and his entire strict and professional demeanor would change - he'd smile and he'd just be so much happier when you or Joy or both of you would visit. You had apple cheeks and lovely soft hair - yup - long ago, but still recall. . .

---

Victoria Kriete - September 23, 2025 at 02:26 PM

PW

“ *I Thank my post was renover so here we go again.
Beautiful, glorious, grand, those are the words I pick to describe you. We will never forget each other and the many years we had.
And I will forever hold you in my heart. And you know that.* ❤️

---

pernille borød wager - July 25, 2024 at 05:29 AM

BG

“ Alex and my father Allen were great friends for many years. My dad would look forward to his trips to New York to spending time with Alex at Modern Arts and Lindsay Gray on 39th. After my dad's passing in 1999 Alex and I kept in touch (he was always trying to sell us packaging!). Over that time it was clear why they remained friends for so long. Alex was easy going, witty and a clever packaging and design fellow. He had deep knowledge of fashion retail in US and would chat about his A list of customers over his many years in the business. He was entrepreneurial in business and real estate and loved to chat about his ideas. He always told me how much he missed my dad and that gave me comfort. I'll miss our chats and wish the family our deepest condolences.

---

Ben Gould - July 20, 2024 at 01:38 PM

AL

---

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:39 AM

RO

“ From sitting next to Alex in a duck blind at early dawn, or enjoying a bottle of fine wine with him at sunset, my times with Alex have all been memorable. I will miss him greatly. Bob Opatrny

---

Robert Opatrny - July 18, 2024 at 03:20 PM

RI

“ Alex and I had been friends and business associates for over 40 years. I am proud to say he was a great friend, dedicated business partner, and a loving family man. His words were always meaningful and he always was working for the best of all those who were associated with him.

His support was unconditional and he delivered on his words. I want to express to Alexandra and his family my deepest sympathy and love. I will miss Alex.

---

richard - July 16, 2024 at 07:37 PM

AL

❤️ Big Love, Richard.

---

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:40 AM

RN

“ Alex and I have been friends and business associates for over 40 years. I am proud to say he was a great friend, dedicated business partner, and a loving family man. His words were always meaningful and he always was working for the best of all those who were associated with him.

His support was unconditional and he delivered on his words.

I want to express to Alexandra and his family my deepest sympathy and love. I will miss Alex.

Dick Nottebart and family

---

Richard Nottebart - July 15, 2024 at 09:04 PM

JB

“ Thank you Alex for your continue love and friendship thru out my life. I will miss you

All my love Jacq

---

Jacqueline Brungardt - July 15, 2024 at 08:04 PM

PW

Take care Jacq- it was such a pleasure to meet you. Alex adored you.
❤️

---

pernille borød wager - July 25, 2024 at 05:31 AM

AL

Love you Jackie

---

alexandra lindsay - April 04, 2025 at 06:40 AM