May the celebrating in heaven commence today.. You were such an amazing part of our lives growing up... the birthdays, the weddings, the holidays.. you were always there with us laughing, entertaining, or sharing your wisdom. We were so blessed to have had you in our lives for so very long. Heaven is a more entertaining place with your arrival. Love you Aunt Margo!

“ Since I was a child, she was a constant smiling presence in my life, always greeting everyone with a hug and a big kiss (and often a gift, too...on New Year's Day). She was at all my childhood birthdays, most holiday dinners and most of my school events (and she and Uncle Don even traveled to Atlanta for my graduation from law school!) Everywhere I traveled through my life, even as an adult, she was the one person I would always send a postcard to.

My favorite memory was our Wednesday evening visits to Aunt Margo and Uncle Don's to watch the Batman TV series. They were the first people we knew in 1966 who owned a color TV and Batman was one of the first TV series to be broadcast in color and Aunt Margo thought we should see it in color! :-)

Very much loved by many, She will be missed. Love,

Your nephew, Paul (Unson)
