“ Tony was a young man with always a friendly greeting, kind word and gentle hand. He was the kind soul you looked forward to seeing. He loved talking about the things he did with his son, what he wanted to do to help others and his passion of working on small engines. Tony was driven; he wanted to understand the intricacies of each part, machine, movement, and to master the required tool(s) for each task. Whatever he did, his heart was all in, even when life seemed to be against him. Tony will be remembered by all, for the heart he shared with his friends and family. He truly loved each of them and if you knew him, you knew too.
May his memory be an inspiration to others.
